

Responsibility

To show responsibility for all our actions and to complete our assignments designated to us is a value we hold high. It is important to our team to be reliable and follow through on all our commitments. We give careful consideration when agreeing to “take on additional projects” before thinking about our existing workload because we are responsible and want to do a good job. This includes not stretching ourselves “too thin” and getting burned out. We have a responsibility to take good care of ourselves, and to do well at our existing commitments.
